

Explore all that Mt. Rich has to offer:

- Petroglyphs!
- The Kent's Plantation House
- Amerindian Site
- Local Ethnobotany
- A glimpse of rural life in Grenada

The Grand Tour costs $25 per person and takes about 2 hours (~1.5 miles). Entrance to the Interpretation Center is by donation.

The Mt. Rich Youth, Cultural, and Environmental Development Organization (MYCEDO) is a grassroots community organization. Our mission is to provide activities for young people, to help members experience personal growth, and to be of service to others by providing learning situations for the development of leadership, responsibilities, and effective citizenship.

With Support From:

The Market Access and Rural Enterprise Development Programme (MAREP), the Grenada Ministry of Tourism, and the Fulbright Commission of the US Embassy

For more information or to arrange a tour:
 Email: mycedo@live.com
 Phone: (473) 410-9170

<http://www.mycedo.org>

MT. RICH AND MONTREUIL

THE MT. RICH CARIB STONE AND VILLAGE TOUR

Tour Information

The Mt. Rich Petroglyphs are a collection of over 60 Amerindian carvings on four boulders along the St. Patrick River.

The “Punch Bowl” is a small volcanic crater just 100m wide, believed to have been part of the last volcanic explosions, within the past 10,000 years.

Workers on the Kent's Estate, ca. 1910

Mt. Rich is an old sugar and cocoa estate with ruins going back to the French period (pre-1763). The current "Plantation House" was built by the Kent Family around 1880. They lived there until the 1960s. The building was later leant to the Anglican Church but was eventually abandoned. Contrary popular belief, it was not damaged during Hurricane Ivan.

Kent Family Cemetery

Montreuil was once a sugar and cocoa estate, with ruins dating to the French period. A large Amerindian village was also here, with artifacts dating from AD 750 through European contact. The Montreuil site is one of just a few inland villages known (most of the other 90 sites are on the coast)! The occupants of this site were likely responsible for the rock art at Mt. Rich.

Workstone at the Montreuil Site

Remains of the Cocoa Facility at Montreuil